Wolfville

There are fewer surprises buried on this road brown dying of trees grey lives of monsters scales and the space that pausing occupies caterpillar bites in leaves like slate violenced free with dynamite this etching

a stripping of feathers

Isn't this near where your father grew up? No.

Every time I think about it I just want to die. Well.

and maybe now a carhorn
bark of footstep shout from radio Fewer but

